Just Folks, That's All

I was once standing upon the corner of one of the principal streets of one of the prominent cities of the United States when a very "swell" rig passed by which contained a pair of our "American aristocrats" with their noses elevated to an angle of forty-five degrees and with a vacant stare upon their countenance that looked as blank and cold as a cake of ice which had been knocked out of the bottom of a tin wash pan on a frosty morning.

A couple of little street urchins happened to be crossing the street right in front of this rig, and the driver had to "slack up" a little to keep from driving over them when a big burly policeman grabbed them by the arm and roughly pulled them away and brutally shoved them from the street and was paid for his brutality by this "he" swell tossing him a half dollar and the "she" swell giving him a smile that looked like a crack in a mud pie.

After they had passed on one of these little urchins said to the other, "Now is dem people any gooder than we uns? They're nothin' but folks if they have got money."

This remark of this little "brat" has often rung in my ears when I would see some of our durned fools trying to be what they are not, and I would often repeat to myself they're nothing but "folks" after all.

When we teach our children that dollars, frills puffers and perfume do not alter anyone, and that with all their "togs" they are only "folks," we will teach them a lesson that will enable them to look at the real side of life and not the artificial side.

It is the people who know that they are just "folks" who move the world.

Go into the shops, the factories, the stores and counting rooms, the fields or the mines, and you will find just "folks" without a single pretense; then, pray tell us, why the man or woman with a lot of good clothes should get it into their "topnots" that they are not "folks."

You will see some "pullit" of society who will refuse to speak to a poor girl who went to school with her, and was often her superior in her studies, but this little "hilt" now refuses to recognize her simply because her pap does not possess money.

Why bless her simple soul, she eats,

University of Texas.

The University of Texas is an institution in which the whole State takes a commendable pride. It has just celebrated its twenty-first commencement season, which was the most brilliant in its history. The attendance the past year was the largest ever enrolled. In its department of literature, science and arts, law, engineering, medicine and pharmacy, the very best training and equipment can be obtained. The cost is very low, as may be seen by reference to the University's advertisement in this issue. There is no reason why the young men and women of Texas should go out of the State to obtain an education and we are glad to say the trend is no longer in that direction. It will be of interest to our readers to learn that 1355 students were in attendance upon the University during the last scholastic year, of which number 837 were in the main University at Austin. Of this last named number 633 are native Texans. As an evidence of the fact that all classes and conditions of our people appreciate the value of an education for their children, 55 different trades and occupations were represented by the parents and guardians of these 837 students. One hundred and thirty-four different counties of the State were represented by one or more students. Of the above mentioned 837 students, who answered the question of the matriculation card which asks for their church affiliation or preferences, 128 gave no preference. The remaining 709 are distributed as follows: Methodists 230; Baptists 133; Presbyterians 122; Episcopalians 80; Christians 67; Jewish 21; Catholics 30; Cumberland Presbyterian 13; Lutherans 11; Unitarians 5; Congregationalists 4; Christian Scientists 2; Universalists 1.

If any of our readers are interested in the work of the University, let them write for a catalogue to Wilson Williams, Registrar, Austin.

drinks, sleeps, sees, smells, hears, tastes and feels just like the girl who hasn't a silk petticoat; then why is she not just common "folks" the same as the girl who washes the "diddy" for her little brother or sister?

You will see one of our millionaire's sons who drives a fast horse or glides about in an automobile, refuse to associate with the young man who is perhaps foreman of his own father and who is the man who actually makes the money that this young jackass is spending.

Now, why should he get it into his "think shell" that he is anything but "folks?" Why bless his silk suspenders, his sox will smell just as bad as the boy who follows the plow or the man who stands behind the counter, and if he catches a cold he will need a handkerchief just as badly as the poor boy who drives an ox cart. Then what advantage has he over those who only think they are just "folks?"

The fact of the matter is just this: whenever a man or woman gets it into their crowns that they are not just "folks" they become asses and asslets.—Folks.

Large Salary For a Year.

Several mine owners in combination have contracted with Henry Zachary, a young man living at Lockhart, Tex., to go with them to Alaska to locate gold veins for them, says a Galveston special dispatch to the Chicago Inter Ocean. The contract covers a period of ten years, for which he is to receive $100,000. They believe that he has powers of divination and say that his abilities in this direction were discovered a year ago when he was taken to the gold fields of California and Colorado, where he unerringly located veins of gold. In performing his wonders he carries with him a slender rod, in one end of which is set a piece of the precious metal, and as he passes over a vein this apparently connects the currents through his hands, which perceptibly quiver.

A Dinner With Talks For Courses.

A novel dinner was given at the Livingston Avenue Baptist church in New Brunswick, N. J., the other evening, conducted by the members of the Woman's Missionary society of the church, says the New York Tribune. The novelty was that there was nothing to eat. About forty-five members and as many guests attended. A pasteboard plate was handed to each person, with the menu pasted on it, and the only thing served was ice water. Mrs. A. B. Sears presided. Each course brought forth a talk on missions, such as "Burma, Rice and Curry From Schools In Burma."

The Muscovite's Excelsior.

The shades of night were falling fast when o'er the Yalu river passed A Cosack who, 'mid snow and ice, Carried a flag with this device: "Wjhtqkhaljakyroff!"

His brow was stern, and his beard Made in the breeze a whistling weird. Cold, vodka numbed, he wished to die, But still that pi line waved on high: "Wjhtqkhaljakyroff!"

"Beware the Japs!" a private said, "Beware yon flying pills of lead!" The stubborn Cosack only sneered, And muttered through his icy beard: "Wjhtqkhaljakyroff!"

"Stay here," the tavern keeper cried, "We've got an easy game inside. You ought to win full many a stack." The whiskered boreman answered back: "Wjhtqkhaljakyroff!"

They found him at the break of day. On a Korean velvet he lay. And to these minions of the czarsky A voice came like a falling star: "Wjhtqkhaljakyroff!" —Collins's Weekly.
